Mayor and Council plan for truck by-pass

We commend Mayor Bill Bowen and the City Council upon telling the people of Statesboro that the problem of truck traffic on U. S. 301 and U. S. 25 and along North Main and South Main streets, has been under active consideration by the City Council.

According to Mayor Bowen plans are being made to eliminate truck traffic from the city streets while encouraging regular tourist traffic to continue to use the down town area. Businesses, including motor courts, motels, restaurants, are assured that the tourist traffic will continue to flow through the business section. The Georgia law provides authority for local officials to designate the types of vehicles which may be required to use a truck by-pass. This means that the City Council can declare that no passenger traffic may use the route to be designated as a truck by-pass.

But let's not toss up our hats too high too quick. Mayor Bowen explains that the cost of securing rights-of-way for the proposed by-pass will come high. "It would appear to be imprudent to consider spending upwards of $50,000 of local tax money for a truck right-of-way when federal grants may be provided for such costs early next year."

However the city administration expresses optimism based upon Congressman Preston's confirming the reports that federal highway legislation would be one of the first items to be considered by the next session of Congress. Because the rapid movement of military supplies and personnel in the event of a military emergency is a prime objective of the highway program, federal funds are expected to be made available to municipalities to acquire rights-of-way and build by-passes such as the ones contemplated by our Mayor and City Council.

And so they are perfecting plans so that when the Federal program is activated and funds made available we'll be sitting on ready. And in the event of no military emergency and the President's highway program should be defeated, again we'll have the plans made and still sitting on ready.

The autumn madness is upon us

We are now in the second week of autumn madness — the 1955 football season.

Our own Blue Devils opened with a bang by defeating Alma 46 to 0 last Friday night in Alma. Tomorrow night they will have a rest and then on Friday night, September 30, they show before the home folk in Memorial Park when they meet Jeff Davis High School of Hazlehurst at 8:15.

The high score they ran up last Friday night can mean one of two things — they got a whale of a good team or their opponents were in pretty bad shape. But that won't make any difference next week. They'll be at home. Fathers and mothers, aunts and uncles, brothers and sisters, and neighbors and friends will be in Memorial Park Stadium encouraging them to give all for dear old SIS.

The stands in the stadium have been repaired. The team shows promise. Coach Teel allows as how they'll play better football this year than last year.

And the autumn madness is highly catching. See you at the game Friday, September 30, 8:15.

This is our Georgia

Georgia is first in producing 74.4 per cent of Gum Naval Stores produced in the United States and 50 per cent of world's production.

Georgia was first in exportation of cattle. (Savannah, 1755.) Georgia is first in the production of commercial broilers, first in the South in hog production, second in the production of sugar cane syrup and third in the production of peaches.

According to the Georgia Yearbook of Agriculture, any edible plant produced in America can be grown in Georgia.

The average rainfall annually for the state of Georgia is 48.41 inches.

Stone Mountain, in Georgia is said to be the largest body of solid granite in the world.

Georgia is the largest state east of the Mississippi River, with a total area of 58,518 square miles composed of 58,518 square miles of land surface and 358 square miles of water. Georgia has approximately 100 miles of sea shore.

Georgia has no bonded indebtedness and operates on a cash basis.

108 reasons why the best people live here

This week the Lions Club is doing a fine thing. They are listing what they call "108 Reasons Why the Best People in the World Live in Bulloch County."

The Lions Club is sponsoring the circus here on October 13. They have asked businessmen and businesses to help them sell tickets in order to assure every kid in the county who can, an opportunity to see the circus — which to a kid is the thrill of their childhood. 108 are on this list of ticket holders.

And the Lions Club is publishing this list and paying those on it high tribute for the part they are playing in this project.

We commend the club and those who are on the list of reasons why the best people in the world live in Bulloch County.

It only needed love and understanding

We have a new newspaper press.

But it has been a trial and tribulation to us the past two weeks. Like a new baby, like a new sweetheart, or new wife, there are so many little things you have to learn about them to keep them sweet and even-tempered.

And in our anxiety to get our paper out on time last week we kept forgetting these things. We swore and sweated and fumed trying to rush things, trying to force things. But to no avail.

This week it's different. We approached our new press with love and affection. We even gave her a name (we can't understand why it's a "Her") and everything goes sweet and even-tempered. And it's wonderful.

"What more should I get her? I gave her HIM!"

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

Every once in a while we run across something that we think is good enough to reprint. Everyone is familiar with the little ditty about what little girls are made of — "sugar and spice and everything nice..."

Well here's one for the boys. It appeared in the Gastonia, N. C. Citizen and was reprinted by the Southern Publishers Association. Those with a small boy or two around the house will likely find the essay worth reading and keeping.

It is titled "Boys are Anyhow Something."

"After a male baby has grown out of long clothes and triangles and has acquired pants, freckles, and so much dirt that relatives do not care to kiss him between meals, it becomes a BOY."

"A boy can swim like a fish, run like a deer, climb like a squirrel, bark like a mule, belch like a bull, eat like a pig, or act like a jackass, according to climatic conditions. He is a piece of skin stretched over an appetite. He is a noise covered with smudges."

"He is called a tornado because he comes in at the most unexpected times, hits the most unexpected places, and leaves everything a wreck behind him. He is a growing animal of superlative promise, and refused that they had been outdone by the goat — that not one was really equal to a goat — hunt or a goat run."

The next day, another kind neighbor from Vista Circle stopped in the rain to say that the goat was lying in such and such a spot. The gentleman received warm thanks for his trouble but the men in our family looked very skeptical about the knowledge of his whereabouts being worth anything. However, half-heartedly the hunters adorned raincoats and caps and rode down to the "goat spot". The older boys said that it was no use, but the youngest felt like a real hunter so he asked to lead them to the goat and the dog. Then the others decided not to leave a lone boy to the discouragement of a goat hunt. All got out of the car and took their stands, crouched behind trees while one chased the goat. The goat came by the thin, hungry-looking presences and he tackled that goat. Any coach in the country would have wept over the could-have-been player, if that tackle could have been seen.

The goat was tied up and carried to his owner with admonitions that it must never get away again, for the hunters were leaving for school.

Coming home, Pa insisted that he was really due credit for the "catch" because he had hypnotized the goat by "bawling" at him.

Anyhow, you see what a vertiginous does, don't you?

THE EXCELLENT KNOWLEDGE — TEXT: "The excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus our Lord." Philippians 3:8.

It is maturity that speaks in these words. Paul was an old campaigner, an erudite scholar, a world traveler and lover of his fellowman.

This knowledge is excellent for the origin. The sources of knowledge are twofold — reflection and experience. It is one thing to know what causes a storm; it is another thing to be in the storm, tossed like a straw to destruction.

Perfect knowledge is the combination of these two. Paul was proud of his education, but he found in the light of later events that his old knowledge was imperfect — not in depth

It Seems To Me

Address to Statesboro Rotary, September 19, 1955

It is always a pleasure for me to have the opportunity to meet with you men of Rotary. Three years ago I came and stood before you to give you an annual report on your Recreation Program. I told you at that time we stood at the crossroads. We had either to attempt to maintain a status, which is of course impossible, or to go forward. We chose to go forward.

With the help of the citizens of this county and with the help of organizations such as yours, we have been able to make progress. Today we are approaching another milestone on the road along which we travel.

There are some problems which we face. There are some questions which must be answered. The city of Statesboro has subscribed to a generous budget for recreation. A budget which includes all the city can properly set aside for recreation and a great deal more than is spent in other cities and towns our city. We cannot, with a clear conscience ask our City Council for more funds when all the other departments of the city have financial problems which must be studied and financed.

In the next few days representatives from the City Council will meet with the Board of County Commissioners to acquaint them with our problems and to show an attendance in the recreation program of one-third rural citizens. There representation will attempt to point out to the county officials the need for a more far reaching program, a program designed to bring in more of our rural youth and adults.

I would like to discuss with you some of the things we have thought about and some of the questions we have studied. On the east side we have the beginning of a good program.

Several meetings have been held among the Negro population and their leaders. They have pointed out the necessity for sound thinking and long-range planning so that the program, once begun, will be a sound and lasting one.

In Memorial Park there is much which needs to be done. Our one building located there could be used many times more than at present if it were possible to do so. It is scheduled

We have a nice building which is under supervision along with a playground which is not too well equipped. The program enjoys good attendance. We have no money in the budget to pay a professional person which is badly needed in this area. We are at the place in our program where we find our services demanded on a constantly increasing basis, our facilities badly over crowded and without funds for future development or capital outlay. Every time in our budget goes to support the program which is in progress.

Under the present conditions there is no possible way in which we can meet the demands of the public for better recreation facilities which are being made today and which will increase tomorrow.

A special committee has been appointed by the Recreation Board at the request of the Mayor to make a complete study of the requirements to set in motion a recreation program for our Negroes. This has not come about as a result of any pressures or any agitation on the part of the Negroes, but rather as a result of sound planning and thinking by both the Negro and white. Just as the Negroes need good churches, and good schools they need a good community recreation program to help develop themselves physically and socially so that they can contribute a maximum effort to our community.

Several meetings have been held among the Negro population and their leaders. They have pointed out the necessity for sound thinking and long-range planning so that the program, once begun, will be a sound and lasting one.

In Memorial Park there is much which needs to be done. Our one building located there could be used many times more than at present if it were possible to do so. It is scheduled

Yes, we have reached another milestone. We will now look to the future and will work together to give to Statesboro and Bulloch county a recreation program which will be worthy of its citizens.

This is truly the county where nature smiles, and progress has the right of way.

HIGH MOISTURE content due to heavy rains may seriously damage the germination of cotton seed unless farmers take steps to prevent this, County Agent Byron Dyer said this week.

WORK WAS STARTED Tuesday, September 21, on a new building house for the Portals School District. This building was badly needed as Mr. Gard, vocational teacher, carried on this work on the school campus.

"YOU CAN'T HAVE EVERYTHING," a movie featuring Alice Faye, Charles Winninger and Don Ameche and the Ritz Brothers will be at the Georgia Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

COACH CROOK SMITH and 22 South Georgia Teachers left Statesboro yesterday to meet the Mercer Bears in the second football game of the season tonight. Though the Teachers lost their opening game to Erskine last week they hope to put up a strong front against the Bears

SPALDING HIGH School at Griffin defeated the Statesboro High School Blue Devils 32 to 7, last Friday, but Gene L. Hodges ran 75 yards for the Blue Devils' only touchdown.

PROGRESS is being made on the Burton Ferry Road (U. S. 301) in many respects. It was learned here last week from Fred W. Hodges, chairman of the Bulloch County Commissioners. It is believed that work will begin immediately on the road from Dover to Sylvania. The Bulloch section from Dover to Statesboro has been completed for sometime.

Dear Ed...

Editor, The Bulloch Herald:

In the Savannah Morning News of last Sunday appeared a long news item on editorial page which was headed, "Local Attorney Investigates Roots of Integration Decision."

It is true the public should know and if you have not read the article you owe it to yourself and to your future generations to make every effort to secure a copy of it to study and keep for future reference. To read it you will be paying General Robert J. Travis of Savannah and Senator James O. Eastland of Mississippi a great tribute for the wonderful effort they have made to examine the records and documents relative to the Supreme Court's decision on segregation.

Read it and write. General Travis and Senator Eastland letters of appreciation.

L. E. FLAKE, Statesboro.
Editor's Note: The article to which Mr. Flake refers deals with the men who handled the research for the court on which it considered the case.

I want to take this opportunity to express my deepest appreciation to all those people who helped make the Statesboro News September 11-17, an outstanding success in Bulloch County. It just proves what I have known for a long time — that Bulloch county is an outstanding success in Georgia. I am convinced that better cooperation can be had anywhere than right here in Statesboro.

Mr. Lanier pointed out that these materials are not exactly new, since they came on the market four years ago and have been widely used since then in the county.

When converting the syringes to the use of these materials from the old live virus, Mr. Lanier pointed out that the syringes be thoroughly cleaned and sterilized with hot water. Do not use any disinfectants of any kind with these materials, and follow the instructions coming with them, he urged.

Mr. Lanier stated that these materials should be given a fair test, since they are a step in the direction of getting away from live virus and have been field tested here in the county for four years with far better results than was expected of them.

Sidney Lanier talks about laws on vaccinating against cholera

Sidney L. Lanier of the City Drug Company discussed the changing laws covering vaccinating hogs against cholera at Ogeechee Farm Bureau Tuesday night.

Since September 9 hog cholera virus have been out in Georgia, he stated. From now on some of the modified forms will have to be used. There are two definite types now on the market, one grown in rabbits only and sold under the trade name of Rovac (Rabbit origin vaccine), and the other grown in rabbits and hogs, alternately, and sold as a modified live virus trade name of MLV.

Various companies have different names for the modified live virus, but it is generally referred to as MLV.

Georgia newspapers pay tribute to the dean of Ga. journalism, Dave Turner

A GREAT LOSS TO GEORGIA
It was with considerable surprise that I learned of the death of D. B. (Uncle Dave) Turner, of Statesboro, the other day. Although Uncle Dave, as his many friends referred to him, had reached the ripe age of 83 and had lived a full and full life, still it seemed a shame that he had to suffer this mortal coil. He had become a fixture in the state's newspaper circles.

My memory of Uncle Dave goes back to the school year 1940-41, when I was editor of the college paper at Georgia Teachers College. The paper was printed in Uncle Dave's shop, and I spent many an hour there watching its pages being made up and listening to the wisdom and wit of the man who had made his life a part and parcel of the printing profession. At the time he had been printing the Bulloch Times and its predecessor publications for about a half century. He was nearing 70 then, but most active in his work. He did all the floor work and most of the editorial chores as well as the advertising solicitation. "Flinders," his right-hand man, also dead now, did all the Linotype work.

Uncle Dave had one of those rare gifts for gab. He could talk endlessly, as he did most of the time. But the way he said things made you want to listen. He punctuated his conversation with anecdotes, good clean jokes, and a background of experience that was undiminished with the passing of years. He was a religious man, without appearing pious. He was not so naive but that he was acquainted with human philosophy. He was a religious man, without appearing pious. He was not so naive but that he was acquainted with human philosophy. He was a religious man, without appearing pious. He was not so naive but that he was acquainted with human philosophy.

outstanding member of the First Methodist Church at Statesboro and most active in local civic work.
Some few years ago his wife preceded him in death, passing away quietly in her sleep. Before that, though, the couple had celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. Typical of the way Uncle Dave took life was his answer to the question: "What do you attribute the success of your marriage to?" He said, "When my wife and I married we agreed to run things on a 50-50 basis. She was to run the house for the first 50 years and I would take the next."

Georgia newspaper folks will miss Uncle Dave and his contribution to the profession. There are some things almost certain. In the land beyond, he is more than likely still wearing his familiar mustache, wielding his mace rule, and chatting with his endless store of wisdom and wit—and, I might add, still writing reminiscent pieces on that old battered typewriter that looked as though it would fall to pieces at any time.
—C. E. Sanders, The Rockmart Journal.

"UNCLE DAVE" TURNER WAS OF THE OLD SCHOOL
In the passing of "Uncle Dave" Turner at Statesboro, Georgia's press has lost one of its most colorful and beloved figures. One of the state's most respected newspapermen, Mr. Turner was of the old school of country editors whose wit and wisdom were always an inspiration to all members of the press.

In the newspaper business from the time he was 13, he was always a credit to it. For

DAVE B. TURNER

"Uncle Dave" Turner passed on to greater rewards last Friday. With him went a part of the stability and integrity of purpose possessed by our forefathers. "Uncle Dave" approached the height of a patriarch in character, and in his chosen life work, newspapering. In this field he spent more than a half century, and as publisher of the Bulloch Times few accomplishments were attained in his community without his stable judgment and wise counsel. Few men are privileged to witness and contribute toward the growth and development of an area such as he did. He was a man who treasured the blessings of a good family life and, in his experienced life, he shared his wisdom and wit in a manner that fascinated his audiences. He was often referred to by those who knew him best as the modern Mark Twain.

In each phase of his life he seemed to reach the epitome of what all men might hope to attain. We share the loss of a noble man with his family and his community. He will be missed and long remembered.

TWO FINE FRIENDS ANSWER LAST CALL

In the passing of "Uncle George" Turner, one of Apples County's finest citizens and "Uncle Dave" Turner, for 60 years editor and publisher of the Bulloch Times, South Georgia has lost two distinguished citizens.
The editor of The News-Banner had long known "Uncle Dave" as a warm friend to aspiring young men, both in and out of the journalistic profession. In "Uncle George" we found the same characteristics. Each was a staunch advocate of education and each held positions of importance in the educational field at some time in a long and useful life.

Although bearing the same name and friends to each other of long standing, we do not believe the two fine South Georgia stalwarts were related. They had known each other since early manhood, however, and usually in conversation with one of them we were asked about the health and welfare of the other.

The life that "Uncle Dave" left at 83 and the life that "Uncle George" left at 81 are examples of service and devotion to others that those who knew them could well strive to emulate.
—Albert Jenkins, The Baxley News-Banner.

Counties make plans for new polio shots

Georgia will soon receive from the United States Public Health Service enough Salk polio vaccine to give free first and second shots to about 180,000 children and pregnant women.

Notice of release of a shipment of 80,000 shots has been received by the Georgia Department of Public Health. This gives the state a total of about 150,000 shots allocated thus far.

The Polio-vaccination Assistance Act recently signed by the President provided $30,000,000 for the purchase by the federal government or state governments of all vaccine produced before February 15, 1956.

Complete plans for statewide distribution of the vaccine have been made by the Georgia Department of Public Health and are on the way to local health departments. The value of Georgia's share will be $992,229, as soon as one-third of the total amount is received in Atlanta it will be distributed to each of the 150 counties in Georgia through the local health departments, or in the case of the 15 counties without an organized health department, through the regional medical directors of the five regional State Health Department offices.

The distribution plans were based upon recommendations of the Georgia State Advisory Committee, representing the Medical Association of Georgia, the Georgia Academy of General Practice, the Georgia Pediatric Society, the Georgia Pharmaceutical Association, and the Georgia Department of Public Health.

The program is expected to spend several days here.

Mrs. W. H. H. Blakeley visited Mrs. J. H. Griffith last weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Trotty and Miss Sylvia Trotty of Ocala, Fla., were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Fontaine.

The Bulloch Herald, Statesboro, Ga. THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1955

None of the vaccine in the new program will be given. Dr. Sellers explained, until final make-up clinics are held for first and second graders to receive vaccine that has been furnished by the National Polio Foundation.

In the foundation program, 178,000 children received the first round of shots and 168,000 received the second. Final make-up clinics are set for October.

Dr. Sellers pointed out that while the new program is much larger than the foundation program, it will not be carried out under the same intense pressure. The shots will be given over a longer period of time as the vaccine becomes available, and they will be given during morning hours when there are normally few cases of polio.

The first distribution of the new vaccine will be after October 15, Dr. Sellers said. Counties will thereafter receive replacements on the basis of vaccine use.
